Dear Dr. Gyorffy:

Thank you for your aerogram of April 27. I apologize for not having answered sooner, the delay being partly due to my having been involved in considerable travel.

I will be very happy to see you at Montreal, perhaps also at Stockholm if you are going to attend the microbiology congress, and here at Madison if your itinerary permits. As you know a considerable number of foreign visitors will be travelling after the Congress and the Department of Genetics has therefore set up a committee to distribute our funds as hospitably as possible. I will certainly refer your name to the committee.

Meanwhile I can assure you that I would be very happy to see you here and I am certain I can find at least, say, $25.00 towards your travel and subsistence from my own funds. I will let you know if we can find a little more, especially as you indicate you want to remain a short while and this will involve additional expenses. Madison is some distance from Indianapolis (about 300 or 350 miles). You would have to stop over in Chicago, and probably to return there from Madison if you plan to travel further westward.

With best regards,

Joshua Lederberg
Professor of Medical Genetics
